DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Farris et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,154,207).

Regarding claim 1, Farris discloses a broadcast signal transmitting apparatus comprising a multiplexer configured to multiplex a broadcast signal and multimedia data, and the multimedia data described by a markup language or hypertext and including broadcast program information, link location information, control signals providing display control to a receiver and control signals providing recording control to a recording medium; and a transmitter configured to transmit said broadcast signal and said multimedia data multiplexed in said multiplexer to said receiver (refer to Fig. 9 for an overview of the multimedia broadcast and delivery system, with ADSL multiplexer/demultiplexer for multiplexing/demultiplexing broadcast and control signals including multimedia data from network server to subscriber via ANSL 901 and then to DET or set top box 900, in a closer view as illustrated in Fig. 8, to the subscriber or user at TV set 900; and ADSL 905 transmits all signals including broadcast, multimedia data and control including link information or hypertext information to a receiver or DET 800 for recording and/or downloading programs based on requests from the user, see col. 14/lines 37-67 (the storage can be associated with a computer connected to the set top box as described below in claim 3), under the control of network controller, see further on col. 15/line 65 to col. 16/line 43; and col. 7/line 65 to col. 8/line 27 for multimedia application including hypertext or markup language addressed.

As for claim 2, Farris further teaches wherein the multimedia data may be delayed from transmission until a time different from that of a corresponding broadcast program signal (see col. 3/lines 43-58 as the timeline of playback can be predetermined as multimedia data is previously stored and played back, not necessary at the time of broadcasting).

As for claim 3, Farris teaches wherein the recording medium is a recording apparatus operably linked to the receiver (col. 3/lines 43-58, as storage is associated with the computer, and the computer is linked to the set top box or the receiver, refer also to Fig. 12).

As for claim 4, Farris teaches this feature as the system can schedule the transmission process for the end user to download or store multimedia data and/or interactive services (col. 17/lines 34-51).

As for claims 5-7, and 8-10, these claims for corresponding method and similar features of the transmitting apparatus as discussed earlier are rejected for the reason given in the scope of claims 1-14 above.

As for claims 11-19, these claims for a receiving apparatus are rejected for the similar reasons above with the receiver or set top box 800 comprising all of the features, see further on col. 12/line 37 to col. 14/line 47 for MPEG demultiplexer for demultiplexing signals received form the network server and other features in processing the broadcast, control and multimedia data from the server.

As for claims 20-22, these claims are rejected for the reasons given in the scope of claims 1-4 and 11-13 for the broadcast system containing a transmitter, a receiver, a multiplexer and demultiplexer as addressed above.

Conclusion
